

Villa Maly is only 15 minutes drive from the international airport and situated in the heart of Luang Prabang, UNESCO World Heritage site, and within walking distance of the main historical attractions and places of interest – if you're in Laos, this is the place to stay!

And not only for the facilities and the awesome location.

You see, the hotel's Art Déco style is prevalent throughout the premises, representing an original blend of French and British colonial furnishings. The ambiance is residential, as if one was staying in a private villa. In fact, the central building was the private residence of former nobility, and its original splendor is derived from the 1920's era, evoking a sense of the French past in modern Laos.

Above all, stay at Villa Maly for the cultural connection to the great Mekong River.

Villa Maly offers a simple and sincere welcome to guests – either on their river boat restaurant or in the hotel gardens, the service is genuine.

And the details are memorable and almost accidental, as if your stay there was always meant to be. Uncomplicated. Restful. Even insightful.

Outside, the courteous and attentive service continues.

And Villa Maly completes you.
