

weekenduae has found the perfect airline!

Flew it only once (to Kathmandu!) so we're not yet experts on what Air Arabia does and doesn't do, but we do know...

They're the best low-cost airline in the Middle East!

In March 2014 Air Arabia took delivery of its 37th Airbus A320, the world's best-selling and most modern single-aisle aircraft, with another 7 aircraft on their way by 2016.

All Air Arabia aircraft cabin interiors are fitted with world-class comfort seats offering highest seat pitch of any economy cabin across the globe and therefore, offering passengers extra leg room to sit back and relax during their flight.

They fly to every weekend destination possible, and with their hub in Casablanca, they also reach Europe.

Further, Air Arabia does everything online, which we love! And, last time we passed through Sharjah airport, it took us minutes to go through check-in, passport control, the luggage scan, and straight to the boarding gate!

Hate Sharjah traffic, love Sharjah airport!

Wait - what's that? Air Arabia has a bus service??? Whatever for?

For passengers from out of Sharjah, of course! No need taxis, leave your car parked safely at home!

But best of all are the cheap fares... the following ad is from last year and has expired, but it shows pretty clearly just what Air Arabia can do for you!

UNBELIEVABLE... EXCITING... SUPER LOW FARES

And those incredible prices are still on – just check out Air Arabia’s ongoing Weekly WEB Promos every Monday and Tuesday from UAE!

And lastly, they seem to be a nice bunch of people – at least those we’ve dealt with!

In fact, Air Arabia, the first and largest low-cost carrier in the Middle East and North Africa, has been awarded the “Corporate Social Responsibility Award” at the 2012 Aviation Business Awards for its contributions to the creation of sustainable livelihoods under the ‘Charity Cloud initiative’ in rural communities in Sudan, Sri Lanka, Yemen, India, and Nepal.

So, over the remainder of the year, weekenduae is proud to travel Air Arabia, and take weekend adventures to a whole new world!
