

Beyond the five-star luxury resorts, which can become very expensive particularly if you have a family that doesn't fit into one room, there is a fantastic alternative in achieving a balance between a fun weekend at the seaside and enjoying your lifestyle.

The Holiday Beach Resort offers such a choice, where you can have your own private chalet or villa, be supported within resort grounds and beach, and yet still enjoy your privacy and your favorite family activities, and not spend all your savings!

You see, instead of a hotel room, one of hundreds - you get your own holiday home!

Park your car out front, bring your own stuff from home - it's yours for the weekend.

Spacious rooms, with full amenities, and also a kitchen area.

The resort is set around a central swimming pool area,

Your weekend is sorted!

The kids will run around in the playgrounds, and jump into the swimming pool (with lifeguard always on duty, and locked at night), and you can relax at the beach, or go snorkeling or fishing, as you like.

And then you can grill in the evenings, also stocking up at the nearby fish market – or bring your own catch directly to the Holiday Beach Resort's kitchens and they will grill them for you!

Or order room service – with some excellent deals on beverages, too – or have your meals at the resort's restaurant!

where the best dish you can order is anything with seafood!

The weekend at Holiday Beach Resort is really the way you like it.

I could see 3-4 families of friends booking together, and then each bringing their favorite foods for live grilling – the fun is in the live cooking: and ladies, sit back and relax, because you know your man is attracted to fire and he'll do all the cooking!

And I could see young couples, wanting their own one-bedroom chalet, nice and quiet, and spending time together over a romantic weekend.

And for the active, and the adventurous, all manners of sea activities are there – such as spearfishing, or kayaking, even scuba diving at nearby Dibba Rock once the resort opens its own dive center.

All in all, the Holiday Beach Resort redefines an affordable weekend at the seaside that suits your very own lifestyle.

You live your weekend your way, in your vacation home away from home.
