And the buffet itself spans across various specialities.

Tidy and carefully curated, we appreciated the attention to detail of the courteous staff.

The cuisine was authentic Italian – the pasta al dente, the risotto creamy, and the herbs all spot on...

And although presented as self-service buffet, the quality of the ingredients and the wholesome flavors carried over a la carte to the table, thanks also to the many combination of sauces that were cleverly offered in combination with the dishes.

Additionally, a pizza oven was at the ready to receive your order!
